

SAINT JOHN'S SCHOOL

Head Teacher

St. John's School is a co-educational, bilingual school located in Concepción in the south of Chile. St. John's has been involved in high quality education for 70 years and has gained a position of leadership in the region. St. John's is an active member of the Latin American Heads Conference (LAHC) and the Association of British Schools in Chile. The school has been offering the Diploma programme of the International Baccalaureate for 22 years and will start with MYP in March 2012. St. John's is currently seeking for a person to the key post of Head Teacher who will be responsible for leading the institution with the new strategic plan as a basis.

The post-holder should have proven leadership qualities paired with a willingness to undertake new challenges. The candidate to the post should possess outstanding interpersonal skills, should be an English speaker and should also be proficient in Spanish. The applicant should possess British nationality or be of British descent up to second generation. The applicant should have spent at least 10 years living in an English speaking country, should be a professional educator with at least 5 years of experience, both in teaching and in positions of responsibility within a school, including the position of Head Teacher, Deputy-Head or equivalent. The person appointed should have a working knowledge of the International Baccalaureate. It is desirable that the applicant should possess a postgraduate degree in educational administration.

The post offers a competitive local salary and an attractive benefits package.
